Babaitsev A.V. Physiological bases political symbolism

One of reasons of political symbol genesis is man's physiology. Political symbolism, basing on physiology, realizes pre-reflexive bases, “unconscious” aspects of life in connection with political ideas and principles. Social and political interactions by means of “physiological” political symbolism is realized by formation of political empathy and negative mobilization against “others”. In case of disappearing of regular symbols in the result of social and political transformations government has to return previous symbols as at the level of physiology any change of familiar and casual symbols leads to the deep social stress.

Key words: physiology, perception, reflection, political symbols.
