PEDAGOGY
(specialty 13.00.08)

Goryachev V.A., Goltsov I.A. Role and place of computer testing while foreign language teaching at technical university

The new method of teaching a foreign language is presented in the article by means of the computer tests, developed on the basis of the computer-training program Assistant II and computer presentations, written in Microsoft PowerPoint. The actuality of the theme and necessity of its research are caused by reforming of the modern system of the higher vocational training in Russia and a demand of the new technologies of teaching of a foreign language, corresponding to the new purposes and problems. As research material the computer training grammatical tests developed on the basis of program-training apparatus Assistant II and a grammatical material, presented in the form of the presentations written in Microsoft PowerPoint have served. Novelty of research consists in application of the new computer technologies which raise efficiency of teaching of a foreign language in a technical college.

Key words: computer lexical and grammatical tests, computer presentations.

Volzhsky polytechnical institute   January, 17, 2012