Geliskhanova R.Z. Law government study and Russian law doctrine on national finance policy

It is considered three stages of formation of Russian state doctrine and its legal doctrine. Each of the periods reveals its own particular doctrines and interaction of science, which is reflected in the formation of branch rights (public, financial, civil). The least-studied period in the indicated problems is pre-Soviet period. At this time the first study on the historical and legal orientation, resulting in the formation of self-direction in legal science appeared.

Key words: state and law doctrine, historical and law science, governmental right, financial riht, legal government study, historiographic periods, self empired policy.
