Kousmartsev M.B. Patriotism phenomenon as a basis of patriotic upbringing in secondary education

On the basis of the ideas of Russian patriotism, contained in the writings of thinkers of the past and current research the author made an attempt to justify the pedagogical aspect of studying the phenomenon of patriotism as the regulatory framework of meaning in the content of patriotic education. The article describes the essential characteristics of service to the Fatherland as the highest sense of patriotism and patriotic education of the logic is proposed, reflecting the nonlinearity of the characteristic features of contemporary social development: the formation of images of the past – a vision of the future of images – images of the formation of patriotic activity in the present. This logic is based on the principles of patriotic education and the priorities, taking into account the age characteristics of students.

Keywords: patriotism, patriotic education, service to the Fatherland, the subject of patriotic education, principles and functions of patriotic education.
