

ECONOMICS
(specialty 08.00.05)

Koulov A.R. Formation of organization and economic mechanism of investment in agricultural complex of North Caucasus district

It is given the suggestions to form the organizational and economic mechanisms, which in Russia's WTO accession should reflect the realities of business and to promote the full-scale modernization not only agricultural production, but also the entire national economy of the country. Given the diversity of economic, social, political and ethnographic features of the North Caucasus Federal District decision goal of enhancing competitiveness through modernization of agriculture achievable, provided that a system of public-private partnership in various fields, as reflected in this article.

Key words: investment in agriculture, modernization of production base of agriculture in the North Caucasus Federal District, organizational and economic mechanism of investment.

North-Ossetian state university of K.L.Khetagurov, Vladikavkaz, Russia

January, 15, 2013
