

PHILOSOPHY

Vyazova A.V.

(“Inderton” Ltd. Vladivostok, Russia)

Philosophy questions in modern philosophy

At all levels of functioning of medical thought it is influenced periodically by these or those philosophical systems. At scientific-theoretical level deep comprehension of vital essence is reached. Development of medicine as a science gives life to all richness of forms and types of medical reality. Therefore there is a need for philosophical reconsideration of the conceptual framework acquired throughout the millennia, for creation of strict modern system of dialectic interrelation of medical representations, categories and concepts. In article the time analysis of medico-philosophical thinking is given, modern representation of the main questions of philosophy and their importance for medicine of the XXI century is considered. Integrative character in the solution of problems of the personality in medicine and in philosophy is noted. The attention to possibilities of philosophy for the help to chronic patients in illness overcoming, allocation of socially significant communications with the outside world is focused. In modern philosophy and medicine integration of various approaches to understanding of the person is noted.

Key words: medicine, philosophy, personality, health and human disease.

July, 10, 2014