

PSYCHOLOGY

Ezhak E.V.

(Don state technical university. Rostov-on-Don, Russia)

Individual resource of a teacher in the context of professional success

The article reveals the relationship of a personal resource teacher and professional success. It shows the originality of the moderation understanding of the internal determinants of the success of the pedagogical activities. It also presents the results of studying the representations of the teacher of the rendered under resources, their use and the determinants of success. It is described the projected axiological and conceptual components of a personal resource in professional activity of a teacher. The article characterizes the main on-Board facilitation of professional and personal growth of a modern teacher.

Key words: personal potential, professional success, responsibility, professional development, personal growth, value, personal meaning, communication resource, views, self-attitude, self-actualization

August, 19, 2014