

LINGUISTICS

M.A. Kurdibailo

(Volgograd state social and pedagogical university. Volgograd, Russia)

Semantic modifications of the secondary naming components in the fiction texts by Tatyana Tolstaya and Ludmila Petrushevskaya

The article is devoted to the semantic modifications of the secondary naming elements in the fiction texts by Tatyana Tolstaya and Ludmila Petrushevskaya. The aim of the article is the description of analysis of the secondary naming components semantic structure. The semantic study of secondary naming chains using the componential analysis let one identify some semantic transformations of words as the components of secondary naming in speech area. During the analysis and the description of each component the author has identified the following transformations: arhiseme reservation or arhiseme changing of one or several words, the substitution of the arhiseme 'person' for arhiseme 'thing', the substitution of the arhiseme 'thing' for the arhiseme 'person', and the actualization of potential semes based on the comparison their lexical and speech meaning.

Key words: seme, sememe, secondary naming, semantic modifications, componential analysis.

July, 21, 2015
