

PEDAGOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY

O.S. Vasilieva, N.M. Gracheva

(Southern federal university. Rostov-on-Don, Russia)

The particular ideas about themselves and the world and their interrelation with the level of self-actualization and vital orientations in modern high school

The subject of researching the subjective picture of teenager's thinking of themselves, the world as a whole and the necessity for developing their personal moral and harmony in a modern world using the possibilities of psychology are the questions of this article. It is possible to look for the answer in empirical researching through the group of teenagers following their ideas they got from inside and outside which becomes their strategy for their future personal development. The teenagers were divided into three parts to give them short characteristics with real possibilities for future developing their personalities. The result of the study emphasizes that need professional psychological and pedagogical student-concerned work with teenagers in connection with a large number of respondents constituting risk group.

Key words: teenagers, thinking and ideas, personality developing, the world as a whole, inside and outside world, strategy for future developing.

September, 21, 2015

---