Justice in the context of axiological matrix of the Russian civilization: cultural and philosophical analysis

The article analyzes the relations between political and legal values of the Russian civilization and Western liberal values. The author believes that the value of equity in the context of the historical and cultural existence of the Russian civilization is not unlike the West value, subordinate freedom and happiness, and is the top of the hierarchy of values. It appears that based on it the implementation of the liberal doctrine is the most adequate to the demands of national security of Russia.

Key words: globalization, national security, history, values, freedom, happiness, justice.
