

PEDAGOGY

M. Koretsky (Moscow state regional university. Moscow, Russia)

The intermediate control levels of the organization of practical skills of students of technology and business faculty at a workshop on metal

The study aims at testing as part of the pedagogical experiment to determine the degree of efficiency of the developed content of the intermediate level of control of practical skills of students FTP at a workshop on metal. The problem of this study is to develop the content of the interim control of the level of formation of practical skills of students FTP at a workshop on metal, providing high levels of practical application formed by competencies and motivation of students. The object of this study is an interim control of the level of formation of practical skills of students FTP at a workshop on metal, as a system component of the final control of students' knowledge and skills. The subject of this study is to control the content of the intermediate level of formation of practical skills of students FTP at a workshop on metal in the form of a reference work. According to the results of forming experiment the positive dynamics of growth in the level of practical skills of students in the manual processing of metal has been found out.

Key words: interim control of students' abilities, level of practical skills, metalworking workshop.

September, 16, 2016
