The specificity of multicultural education of the indigenous people of the North Caucasus

A huge spiritual and moral potential of the unique ethnic culture and traditional life style of indigenous peoples comes into conflict with the rules of living which expounded by mass culture for young people. It happens in modern conditions of expansion of intercultural relationship and globalization of public relation. This contradiction can be positively solved by the organizing of multicultural education, taking into account the specifics of the output of indigenous people to intercultural dialogue with other cultures. The specificity of multicultural education, which allows to use the spiritually moral potential of culture and traditional lifestyle of indigenous peoples as a mean of protecting young people from moral decay, which is promoted by mass culture has been shown in this article.

Key words: ethnic culture, intercultural dialog, multicultural education, indigenous peoples.
