The problem of socialization of the orthodox spiritual identity in secular spheres

It is discussed the aspects of the introduction of the spiritual Orthodox person in secular circles and the values of the Orthodox way of life for personality development. The notion "secular" is usually regarded in the sense of "non-religious". The path from the secular to the Orthodox is the way of self-preservation to trust in God's Providence, from education to piety, from morality to Holiness, from being to the otherness. Orthodox enriching the world civilization with a new vision of the human person as unique and unique phenomenon in which the person is not known only through his nature, and in the power given to him more than freedom and reason are able to acquire and to dispose.

Key words: spirituality, identity, Orthodox, secular and religious personality.
