

PHILOSOPHY

Vitaly A. Fomin, Vladimir N. Fomin

(Krasnodar state institute of culture and arts. Krasnodar, Russian Federation; Armavir state pedagogic university. Armavir, Russian Federation)

Influence of the political system on the development of the creative abilities of the personality

It is considered the contradictory influence of the totalitarian and liberal model of the state on the development of the individual from the point of view of its creative activity, analyzed the influence of the social environment on the individual in terms of its talent, shown the need for competition of ideas as the main driving factor in the development of the individual and society as a whole. The authors put forward the idea that the heteronomy of political regimes limits the individual's right to autonomy, narrows the inner social space and time of a person's creative activity, which leads to leveling of individuality by losing valuable sovereignty. The author's vision of solving the problem of opposing the individual and society through creativity and self-creation of the individual within the framework of the dialogical ethics with its imperatives of personalistic responsibility is proposed.

Key words: social environment, political system, personality, creativity, talent, freedom, creativity.

February 21, 2019

---