

PHILOSOPHY

Rosa K. Shamileva

(Grozny state oil technical university of M.D. Millionschikov. Grozny, Russian Federation)

Justice in treatment of conservative theory of the West

It is considered the conservative interpretation of justice in the context of egalitarianism that causes fierce debate from modern liberalism. The idea of justice expresses aspiration of people to improvement of the public relations and belief in the better future. Justice – the ideal turned into the future, the speaker at the same time as due in relation to real, i.e. to what exists now in our world. Arguments and the facts pros and cons of egalitarian interpretation of a problem of justice are given in article. There is a huge task before a modern conservative thought in the West – to considerably re-orient ideas of social justice, i.e. to pass from egalitarian values to essentially not egalitarian. The author made an attempt to characterize the approach to the solution of this task by representatives of the Western European conservatism.

Key words: social justice, conservatism, conservative theory, egalitarianism, egalitarian theory, egalitarian values, equal opportunities.

April 29, 2019
