Representation of the concept "age" in proverbs and sayings of the Chechen language: gender aspect

It is considered the representation of the concept "age" from a gender perspective based on proverbs and sayings of the Chechen language. Age appears as a process of development of an individual; it is an object of evaluation in the aspect of external and internal qualities of a person. The study of names of a person by age on the example of paremiological units reflects the national and cultural specifics of any nation. Based on the analysis, we can conclude that, first, the content of the concept "age", as many researchers say, should be considered as "a partial conceptosphere of a person, i.e. as part of the language material for creating an image of a person"; secondly, the same gender-labeled units on the basis of "age" can be distributed among different lexical and semantic groups.

Key words: age, gender, concept, lexical and semantic group name of the person, masculinity, femininity.
