

PHILOLOGY

Galina N. Ostrikova, Olesya P. Kolesnikova

(Don state technical university. Rostov-on-Don, Russian Federation)

Expression of emotionality and expressivity in enantiosemy sentences in German

The given article is devoted to the problem of emotionality and expressiveness expression in enantiosemic German sentences. Currently, this problem is relevant in linguistic science, since not enough category enantiosemy research has been done in German. The global changes in our society over the past decades have affected the communication sphere. Communication between people has become more emotional. The analysis of texts from fiction has resulted in revealing that indeed German sentences with the enantiosemy meaning are characterized by special expressiveness and emotionality.

Key words: enantiosemy, emotionality, expressiveness, syntactic units, sentence, German.

March 28, 2020

---