

PEDAGOGY

Faina Kh. Kursheva

(North-Caucasus federal university. Stavropol, Russian Federation)

Psychological and pedagogical technologies for preparation of social work bachelor for volunteer activity

The article describes psycho-pedagogical technologies and stages of preparation of student youth for volunteer activity, describes author's technology of preparation of future specialists in social work for volunteer activity. Conditions of development of volunteering in student environment are considered, essence of technological approach to training of volunteers is revealed. According to the author, currently volunteer activity can be considered as a certain lifestyle of the young generation, a way of revealing their personal potential and expressing social position. That is why it is so relevant to become a pedagogical reflection of the phenomenon of volunteering, the development of modern approaches and technologies for the training of volunteers.

Key words: learning, learning process, social responsibility, cognitive activity, motivational-value attitude.

May 21, 2020
