

PEDAGOGY

Violetta V. Roshchupkina, Nadezhda P. Klushina, Ekaterina A. Klushina

(North Caucasus federal university. Stavropol, Russian Federation)

Pedagogical features of preparing students for social entrepreneurship

It is considered various pedagogical aspects of preparation for social entrepreneurship, analyzes the features and problems of teaching social entrepreneurship in domestic pedagogical practice. The authors present the results of a survey of the expert community on the problems of preparing for social entrepreneurship in the higher education system and suggest possible ways to solve these problems. However, despite the social importance and demand for social entrepreneurship, there is a number of problems related to both the trends in its development in domestic practice and the functioning of the system of training for entrepreneurial activity in the context under consideration.

Key words: higher education, educational standards, pedagogical practice, vocational training system, supplementary education.

July 10, 2021
