

PHILOSOPHY

Irina L. Merzlyakova

(Rostov state economic university, Rostov-on-Don, Russian Federation)

Social time as a socio-cultural constant of the genesis of historical consciousness

It is considered social time as a socio-cultural constant as a structure-forming element of historical consciousness, revealed the essential characteristics of socio-cultural constants and their specificity. Within the framework of the presented article, socio-cultural constants mean socio-cultural phenomena corresponding to certain historical stages of the development of society, capable of transforming their essential or semantic content. The article notes the peculiarities of time as a special socio-cultural constant of the genesis of historical consciousness in the conditions of discreteness of modern society.

Key words: social time, socio-cultural constants, socio-cultural context, historical consciousness, discrete historical consciousness.

September 07, 2021
